President's Message

From the mail I have received, it seems that those attending felt we had a good reunion at Crete. Your officers worked hard. We had four, two-hour sessions to bring ourselves up-to-date and to prepare for the general business meetings. We were busy adopting the new Constitution and By-laws, planning to put our Doane genealogy on computer discs, revising our membership materials, changing our dues structure as of 1995 and choosing to hold our next reunion in Salem, Ore., hosted by the Oregon-Washington Chapter. I wish to thank all the officers and committee chairs who helped to make this reunion a success. I also thank those retiring officers: Dora Troxel, Gene Doane and Emma Barrows. All have served us well. We recognized Emma as our Historian Emeritus in appreciation for the more than 25 years she had taken care of our records and us.

We also approved support for the New England Chapter proposal to place a plaque on the Doane Plot in Eastham, Mass., to commemorate the 350th anniversary of the founding of the town.

Our Deacon John's family was one of seven first families settling there. Financial support was granted by the Doane Family Foundation as well as by individuals present. If you wish to add to this support, make checks to DFA New England Chapter, Carol-Ann Vella, 228 Brook Road, Milton, MA 02186. The dedication was held Oct. 1, 1994. John and I attended.

Another Foundation grant continued having a Doane family scholar at Doane College. In addition, a sum was set aside for a scholarship to be awarded to a DFA member or direct descendant who would like to attend Doane College. A further sum will enable our archival materials at the college to be indexed. William Doan was elected to replace the vacancy left by A. Stoddard Jones' resignation. Stoddard had served devotedly, and we thank him.

Recently, John and I visited the Ontario Chapter meeting. We were pleased to be made honorary members. We had not been affiliated with any chapter previously. This chapter is our nearest one, and we feel at home with them.

It is not too early to plan to attend the 1996 reunion. Oregon is a beautiful state and Chapter President John Doan promises a great time.

Sincerely,

Dorothy Doan Baker

New Historian

Historian Emma Barrows has had health problems and asked to be relieved of the duties her office requires. At our DFA reunion in Crete, we elected Kay Hartman to become our new Historian. Kay teaches computer science and has proposed putting our Doane Volumes on computer discs so the books and index can be made available to chapters. Kay's address is:

Note from Emma Barrows

Dear Doane Family,

The flowers were beautiful and each day as I look at them I have happy memories of other reunions.

I thank you all for the memorabilia Frank brought back, especially the Historian Emeritus. Golly, that really makes me feel important, and I do sincerely appreciate this honor.

The card with all your names was precious as I read each one, it recalled many special times we've enjoyed with each of you.

With love,

Emma Barrows

Dedication of Plaque at Doane Homestead Plot Eastham, Mass., Oct. 1, 1994

At the reunion at Doane College this past summer, a proposal to place a marker on the site of the original Doane Homestead in Eastham, Mass., to commemorate the 350th Anniversary of the town founding was approved. The Doane Family Foundation gave financial support to the project as did many members. The New England Chapter, under President George Doane, was the sponsor. James Doane, their historian, was most active in setting up the historical background.

The dedication ceremony was scheduled for October 1, 1994. The bronze plaque on a granite slab honored all seven of the original founding families: Bangs, Cook, Doane, Higgins, Small (Smalley) and Snow. Representatives of all but the Smalls were present.

The New England Chapter arranged for the use of the National Seashore Visitor's Center auditorium. In his opening remarks, George Doane pointed to Eastham as the "beginning point from which people migrated to build this nation."

Dorothy Doan Baker, International President of the Doane Family Association, recalled previous ceremonies, especially the one in 1869, when on the same plot, the Honorable John Doane had a granite marker erected which still stands.

Selectman Donald Sparrow, whose family tree includes five of the seven original families, traced the history of the part of Nauset incorporated at Eastham.

Joyce Higgins Howard of Indian Mills, N. J., read a poem sent by Louise Nelson, a member of the Higgins family from Washington State. The New England Chapter provided a picnic lunch near the homestead site and the company moved to unveil the bronze marker. The Rev. George Higgins of Eastham led a prayer asking God's blessing on "the children of time who are gathered to remember those who have preceded us."

The dedication was well attended by folks from the New England States as well as from Delaware, Kentucky, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania and Virginia.

Query

Seeking proof that Nancy Allen was the wife of Hezekiah Doan, married circa 1978, probably in New Hanover/Bladen Co., N. C. Also seeking names of Nancy's parents. Her father is said to have fought in the Revolutionary War. Also seeking proof that Sarah Bland was Hezekiah Doan's mother. Hezekiah was born in 1763 in New Hanover/Bladen Co., N.C. His father was Hezekiah Doan, born 1737 in Providencetown, Mass.

Scholarship Announced

Reviewing the 1965 Proceedings of the National Reunion held at Doane College, I found that Dr. D. Howard Doane suggested, "Reminiscing is a poor way to hold the family group together or to acquire young people. Some suggestions of projects were discussed; among them a Doane Scholarship, loan or grant for Doanes wishing to attend Doane College. This idea was to be explored and reported on at a later date."

Well, it is certainly later, and I want to inform the family membership that action taken by the Doane Family Association Foundation Directors in a meeting at Doane College in Crete, Neb., during the 1994 Reunion provides for the aforementioned scholarship.

Commencing with the 1995-96 academic year, funds from the Doane Family Association Foundation will be available for an incoming freshman who is a member or a direct descendant of a member of the Doane Family Association. The prospective recipient must meet standard admission requirements established by Doane College. Inquiries regarding this scholarship should be directed to the Office of Financial Aid at Doane College.

The DFA Foundation has experienced significant growth in recent years, and A. Stoddard Jones is certainly to be recognized for his untiring efforts on behalf of this pursuit. Since Stoddard has resigned as a member of the DFA Foundation Board, President Dorothy Doan Baker has asked me to join the Board.

The Doane Family Association Foundation must continue to grow in value if we are to offer the type of scholarship assistance that Dr. D. Howard Doane had in mind 30 years ago. I urge you to consider OUR FOUNDATION when contemplating tax deductible gifts.

Recipe for Mystery Couple

A message from Richard H. and Jean W. Thomas, 920 Fairacres Drive, Kettering, OH 45429:

While attending the Doane reunion this summer, we had lunch with a lovely couple whose father (I can't remember whether his or hers) kept bees. We discussed bees at length. I mentioned that I had a good, easy recipe for baked chicken with honey, and I would send it to her. She gave her name and address to me which I put in my shirt pocket. When we arrived home from Doane College, I washed the shirt with the name and address in it, and neglected to check the pocket. I have a superb washer! It erased every bit of ink from that piece of paper. Whoever you are, I hope you will read this newsletter and remember. This is the only way I can get the recipe to you.

CHICKEN DIABLE

2 large chicken breasts (split in 2 pieces)
4 T (1/2 stick) margarine
1/4 cup honey
1/4 cup prepared mustard
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. curry powder

Wash chicken breasts, pat dry and remove skin. (Boning them is good too.) Melt margarine in shallow baking pan; stir in remaining ingredients. Roll chicken breasts in margarine mixture to coat both sides, then arrange meaty side up in single layer in same pan. Cover with foil. Bake in 375° oven, 35 minutes with foil on top and 30 minutes uncovered. Baste occasionally during last 30 minutes.

Captain Deborah Doane Dempsey

An article from the Professional Mariner Magazine entitled "Desperate Night on a Dead Ship" was submitted by L. Scott Doane of Trenton, Maine. Scott Doane is a retired Boston Harbor Pilot, being connected to the sea and ships, who had heard about Captain Deborah Doane Dempsey.

Captain Dempsey and her crew were helicoptered to the 634-foot freighter, Lyra, owned by Lykes Brothers. The Lyra had broken adrift from a tow and was rolling helplessly in heavy seas off the North Carolina coast. The ship was unmanned, without power, and was drifting towards Frying Pan Shoals, by then less than 50 miles away. Captain Dempsey and her crew of four worked perilously through the night, and just before midnight, their mission was accomplished. At this point they were 16 miles from Frying Pan Shoals and anchored in about 100 feet of water.

Captain Deborah Doane Dempsey is found in Volume II, page 429, para. 1384.

The photograph cutline read: Capt. Deborah Doane Dempsey, the first woman to graduate from Maine Maritime Academy (MMA) and the first woman to command a U.S. merchant ship in international trade, received an honorary doctor of science degree from Joseph Sewell (center) president of MMA's Board of Trustees and MMA President Kenneth M. Curtis at Saturday's commencement.

The following is an excerpt from the article: In 1976, Dempsey became the first woman to graduate from MMA. She is also the first woman to serve as master of a U.S. flag merchant ship in international commerce and was a regular captain for the Lykes Bros. Steamship Co.

"You are the proof," Curtis said, "that competence is not a matter of gender."

Norman H. Doane

Norman H. Doane, of Cincinnati, Ohio, became a member of the Doane Family Association in 1951. He attended his first reunion in Massachusetts in 1951, accompanied by his father, Charles Doane of West Baden, Ind., and his wife, Virginia, who had persuaded Norman to attend. Both Norman and Virginia became very active in the Doane Family Association, serving on various committees. In 1957, at Plymouth, Mass., Norman, serving as a vice-president, initiated the Endowment Fund. Later, he arranged for gifts to this fund to be tax deductible as it was determined that the DFA was a non-profit organization.

At the 1959 reunion in Eastham, Mass., Norman presented a paper on "The Dones of Utkinson Hall," which was read by Virginia. He made two trips to England for his research. He also entertained those in attendance with slides from past reunions. At this, his fifth reunion, he was elected treasurer. For several years, Norman was in charge of membership and proceedings. He was partially responsible for securing funds for the second printing of The Doane Family, Vol. 1.

In the 1963 Proceedings, there is a memorial to Virginia Doane, Norman's beloved wife, who died during that reunion.

One of Norman's many interests has always been art. At many of our reunions, he has exhibited his paintings. The last reunion he attended was in Georgetown, Ky., in 1988, where he once again had an art exhibit. Many of us in the Doane Family Association have purchased one of his renderings of the Doane crests based on the coat of arms of Sir John Done of Utkinton Hall in Tarporley, England.

Today, Norman resides in an apartment at the New England Club, 8135 Beechmond Avenue, Cincinnati, Ohio 45255. He continues his art and displays it there. The members of the Doane Family Association today have many reasons to salute this gentleman who is responsible for the current financial stability of our organization. Although he now is unable to attend DFA reunions, he would welcome visits and cards from any of you.

Corrections

A letter from Maggie Pauline Doan Howard points out several corrections which should be made to the article on William Alexander Doan which was published in our Doane 1992 Proceedings.

Lt. Gustavus C. Doane

My brother, James F. Doan, of Daytona Beach, Fla., and I attended the 43rd International DFA Reunion in Crete, Neb. At the conclusion of the reunion, we spent several weeks touring the West in his motor home. While visiting Yellowstone National Park, I discovered a book in their museum and genealogy department entitled Battle Drums and Geysers, The Life and Journals of Lt. Gustavus Cheney Doane. This book was authored by Orrin and Lorraine Bonney. Mr. Bonney has since passed away, but I have been in touch with Lorraine Bonney in Kelly, WY. She does not have any hardback books left, but this book is now sold in three volume paperback set. Gustavus C. Doane was such an interesting man, both as an explorer and as a soldier, that I want to share what has been written about him in our Doane Volume II, #663, page 66. Since I am not a longtime member of DFA, I hope I am not repeating what has been published about this great man in previous newsletters.

SOLOMON⁷ DOANE (Joshua⁶, Joshua⁵, Solomon⁴, Samuel³, John², John¹) was b. Sept. 4, 1813, d. of lockjaw, Aug. 5, 1866; m. Nancy Davis, a native of Penna. He lived in Galesburg, Ill., St. Louis, Oregon and arrived in California, May 8, 1849 on the English Bark "Janet." He became a farmer at Alamo, Calif. Children:

Sept. 23, 1878, Virginia City, Mont.); 2m. at Helena, Mont., Dec. 16, 1878, Mary Lee Hunter, b. July 7, 1859, Chester, Ill., d. June 25, 1952, Bozeman. No issue.

The career of this remarkable man, a soldier and explorer, began in 1846 when he went with his family by ox team to Oregon. In 1849, at the age of nine, the father and son went to California on the English bark "Janet," arriving in San Francisco May 8, 1849. He grad. with an A.M. from Pacific Univ. (Santa Clara) in the class of 1861. In October 1862, he enlisted in the "California Hundred" which became a part of the 2nd Mass. Cavalry. He was mustered out in 1865 as a 1st Lieutenant. He became a carpet bagger in Mississippi and was appointed in 1867, by the Government of Reconstruction. Mayor of Yazoo City. He returned to the army in 1868, receiving a commission as 2nd Lieutenant in the 2nd U.S. Cavalry, July 5, 1868, and was for many years engaged in fighting Indians and scouting on the plains. From Aug. 22 to Sept. 24, 1870, he was in charge of the escort for the famous Washburn Expedition through the region of Yellowstone. His report on the first exploration of this region, published as a Senate executive document, has come to be regarded as a classic description and has never been surpassed. A peak, overlooking Yellowstone Lake in the Absaroka (Crow) Range, is named for him. He returned to the Yellowstone the next year, commanding the escort of the U.S. Geological survey and later, the Northwestern Pacific Railroad survey. He was promoted to 1st Lieut. in this year. He sought permission to explore the Nile, as he had earlier asked to make the first exploration of the Colorado River, but his requests were refused. He took part in the Sioux campaign. In attempting to reach the Columbia River from the Snake River, he lost his boat. He reached the settlement three days later, traveling without food, after having lived twenty days on horse flesh.

In 1880, he went on an ill-fated Arctic expedition, commanding a vessel which became damaged and in-serviceable. He was promoted to captain in 1884 and the next year, his command took the field against Geronimo's hostile Apaches. In his obituary, read at the Society of California Pioneers, it was said of him: "He was an ideal frontiersman and soldier of the trail; he was refined, courteous, gentlemanly in society. Possessed of a varied store of knowledge acquired by study, he had also gained, by personal observation and experience, that subtle information possessed by Indians, which is so hard to learn or to communicate to others. It is hard to realize that this powerful, bronzed, soldier of the mountains and the plains who had faced danger so often, who had encountered so many storms apparently unharmed, who had survived so many privations and hardships in his adventurous and active life and who seemed to be superior to every trial had died (at age 51) while yet in the strength of his manhood." See his "Personal Recollections--Two Yellowstone Expeditions" (in Theo. F. Rodenbough's "From Everglade to Canon with the second Dragoons") 1875, p. 405-419; his report upon the so-called Yellowstone Expedition, Wash., 1873.

He settled in San Diego Co. in what is known as Doane's Valley where he was in the hog and cattle business. In 1907, he became a ranch man in the Imperial Valley, later returning to Doane's Valley. He was a skilled hunter of mountain lions, bears, coyotes and side-winders. He also wrote both prose and poetry which found its way into various western publications. His colorful career, during the time he lived in Doane Valley on Palomar Mountain in San Diego County, are amusingly described in Catherine M. Wood's "Palomar, from Tepee to Telescope" (ca. 1937). Of this marriage, there was one son, Edwin, b. 1907.

The two men backed up and then ran out the exit door.

Muschong followed the two robbers at a distance and observed them run along a lane near the store's gas pumps. The robbers could see him follow and waved the gun at him several times in an attempt to scare him away. As the pair ran across a parking lot, Muschong saw one pull off his mask to reveal long blond hair. He then returned to the store and called 911.

Jeff Holt, Milan Deputy, said the call came in at 10:47 p.m. while he was driving his personal car through town. He looked up and saw a blue Buick 4-door that had been dispatched by other police departments as having been involved in another robbery.

Jeff Holt followed the Buick and was soon joined by Milan Marshal Dennis Ryker, then Tom Holt and Sunman Marshal Ray Doane. When officers turned on their red lights to stop the car a chase began westbound on S.R. 350 that escalated to 100 m.p.h.

Tom Holt said that Osgood Police Officer Steve Noble set up a road block near C.R. 100E. The fleeing car slowed as it passed through Noble's roadblock, giving Holt the opportunity to get ahead of the Buick. With one police car in front, one on the side (Ray's) and one in the back, the rolling road block ground to a halt.

Officers saturated the Buick with flood lights and ordered that all occupants put their hands on the car's ceiling and began to remove the robbery suspects. Holt said the car's three occupants were taken into custody without incident.

In the Ripley County Jail charged with armed robbery, a class B felony, is 19-year-old Daniel Richey and 20-year-old Daniel Shaver, both of Greensburg. Also taken into custody and then released to parents was a 17-year-old juvenile female, also of Greensburg.

Police served a search warrant on the suspects' vehicle Monday, April 25, but were unable to find the handgun. Officer Holt felt that the 9 mm handgun may have been thrown from the vehicle.

Police recovered a mask and some money in the car and a shoe left in a parking lot near the store, that will be used as evidence in the case. One of the suspects was missing a shoe when taken into custody.

Officer Holt states that he believes this group may be responsible for several additional armed robberies and stolen cars in a five-county area in southern Indiana. Two similar robberies took place in Bartholomew County, one in Greensburg on April 18, and one in Batesville on April 21. In the Batesville and Greensburg robberies, the employee on duty was handcuffed in a back room before the robbers made their getaway. In the Milan robbery, Muschong was not handcuffed.

Assisting in the investigation were officers from the State Police, Ripley County Sheriff's Department, Batesville, Sunman, Osgood, Versailles and Greensburg Police Departments and the Bartholomew County Sheriff's Department.

Attention: Dues Changes

At the 1994 reunion some changes in the membership structure were approved by those attending. Two major changes will take effect Jan. 1, 1995. They are: 1) membership dues will increase and 2) membership will run on a biennial basis, expiring in August of even number years (reunion years). Other changes included the establishment of family biennial dues and elimination of the sustaining and junior category.

Individual Life membership will be issued to those who are 18 years of age or older. The fees for this will increase to $50.00.

Biennial Individual membership fees will raise to $15.00 for the two years. This is available to any age. They will expire in August of even numbered years.

Biennial Family membership is a new category. This will allow two adults (spouses), and all children under the age of 16 years living at the same address to become members of the DFA.

All will receive the benefits due other members, however, only one set of publications will be mailed to that address. The fee for this new membership is $25.00 for two years. It will be necessary to have the names of the adults, plus the names and ages of all children to be included.

If you wish to have everyone at your address receive a set of the publications, then each must pay an individual membership.

These changes will require a lot of adjusting for all of us, and we do hope that you will bear with us.

Since the dues will now become due in August of even numbered years (reunion month, so it should be easy to remember), it will be necessary to pro-rate in some fashion. Therefore, annual members who join or renew in an odd numbered year have the option of joining for one year for half the fee, or three years for one-and-one-half the fee, so that you will be into the proper rotation of expiration.

If you have any questions regarding these changes, please feel free to write to: Betty Goodrich, Membership Chairman, 33582 50th St., Waseca, MN 56093-4801, for clarification and a new membership brochure.
